BREAK O' DAY

The above cut will give some idea of the size and beauty of this variety. It is really one of the very finest Glads we have ever seen. Massive spikes with several flowers opening at a time. Blooming extra early, its soft LaFrance pink flowers will always be marketable at high prices. The pink is flushed over a cream ground and the shade is deeper at tips of petals. There is a zone of martius yellow on lower petals with delicate central lines of Brazil red. The most striking extra early variety ever produced.

RIVERSIDE PRESS, SAINT PAUL

To Our Friends and Customers

Greetings

With this modest 1926 catalogue goes out to you our heartiest thanks for your generous support in the past; and for the many kind letters expressing your appreciation of our efforts to you, as well as to all the new customers that we may have the opportunity to serve this season, we wish to say that we will always endeavor to deserve your unlimited confidence. Our experience in the past season has been intermingled with both pleasure and grief. We had planned to offer you this year the largest assortment of the "World's Finest Glads," but our ambition did not fully materialize. Providence willed otherwise. While we succeeded in gathering from many lands the newest and most highly recommended varieties, originated by the foremost hybridizers in our own United States, as well as in foreign countries, and even succeeded in growing a fine crop, we were unable to save a very large part of it. We could not overcome the adverse weather conditions at harvesting time, and the very unusual early freeze-up in October destroyed millions of bulbs for us that were still in the ground. Including many new and valuable kinds, more than one hundred varieties were lost completely, which will account for the discrepancy in our earlier calculations. While we cannot hope to ever retrieve our financial loss, our reverses will not deter us from redoubling our efforts in continuing to add to our collection the newest and finest originations as fast as our means will permit, as we will never be content with "Just a good collection." We must have "The Very Best" to offer our friends. We even hope some day to be able to "get up" a real "Glad" catalogue to send you.

In soliciting your valued patronage we wish to state that we are firm believers in the "Golden Rule Motto" and will always live up to that principle to the limit of our ability and understanding.

Yours sincerely,

A. J. ANDERSON and WIFE.

Glad Fans Are Always Welcome Visitors

Our new place is located 12 miles north of St. Paul, Minn., on highway No. 1, and on the newly paved Bald Eagle Avenue, between White Bear Lake and Bald Eagle Lake, just before you cross the Soo Line railroad, and is convenient to reach by automobile or by Bald Eagle Lake Auto Bus from St. Paul. The main travel from the Twin Cities to the lakes and Duluth passes our place. We will always be glad to have you call when convenient to do so, and at blooming time especially, as we hope to always have something new and of interest to the real flower lover. Our soil and climate is ideal for the production of bulbs of best quality, and we hope to make this not only our permanent home, but also the Home of the World's Finest Glads.

COME AND SEE US.

Terms of Sale

Important: Many varieties of Gladiolus will bloom well from from very small, young bulbs, and in many instances even better than from large, old, overgrown, or bulbs that have been "forced" to produce large flowers. The smaller sizes in well cared for young stock are the most profitable for the grower to plant and for that reason many will not dispose of their young stock unless absolutely necessary. We lost the largest part of our "full grown" bulbs in the early "cold snap" in October, and in many varieties we have only medium size to offer. This stock is mostly first year from bulblets grown in new, sandy loam soil in our dry atmospheric condition where the very best quality bulbs are produced. No effort or expense has been spared in caring for and curing our stock to keep it in the best growing condition for next spring's planting, and should prove most satisfactory in any climate suitable for the growing of glads.

On account of an ever increasing demand for young bulbs in smaller sizes, especially in the newer and rarer kinds, and with our inadequate facilities to handle a large volume of correspondence promptly, we are going to list our bulbs in three sizes.

Large, indicated by "L" in connection with the price, will include bulbs 1, 1¼ and 1½ inches in diameter—some varieties larger—none smaller, usually termed "Large Blooming Size."

Medium, indicated by "M." This size runs from ½ to 1 inch in diameter and is much in demand by those who grow for flowers and increase of their stock both.

Small, indicated by "S." This size ranges from ¼ to ½ inch in diameter and is only offered in new or more expensive kinds, and will be of interest to those who want to "get a start" with certain variety at a small cost. While many of this size will bloom the first year under favorable conditions, "too much" should not be expected. We shall be liberal in grading as well as in count as far as we have the stock.

Order early as our supply is by far not equal to the demand. We will be "sold out" of certain varieties long before the end of the season. When orders are sent later it is well to name a second choice, as we never substitute only with your permission, otherwise we promptly return your money for any part of your order we are unable to furnish.

Early orders will be well "rewarded" in more liberal count or "extras." A gentle "hint" at what would be most acceptable would help us to please you.

Terms: Cash with order amounting to $5.00 or less, and orders amounting to more than $5.00, a deposit of 25% will hold until March 15. Balance in advance of shipment. No C. O. D. orders can be sent to unknown customers. No orders can be filled after May 1. We are then in the midst of planting. Minimum orders, $1.00.

All orders from this catalogue for $3.00 or more will be sent prepaid and insured to any part of the world reached by parcel post or express.

Foreign Customers: Please make remittance in Postal Money Orders. Personal checks at par from any part of U. S. A.

Special Offer for Early Orders: In addition to our greatly reduced prices and "extras" with every order, we offer a cash discount on all orders received from this catalogue before March 1, 1926.

5% off on orders for $3.00 to $10.00.

10% off on orders for $10.00 to $25.00.

15% off on orders for $25.00 to $100.00.

20% off on orders for $100.00 to $200.00.

To Dealers and Growers: Many of the most desirable varieties described in this catalogue as well as small sizes and cormels will be supplied in wholesale quantities at lowest prices. You should have our Wholesale List. A postcard will bring it.

Guarantee: We guarantee our stock to be true to name, and of good growing quality. We cannot assume any responsibility for results, as conditions under which they are grown are beyond our control. Should any bulb we send out not bloom "true to name," we will gladly replace it two for one, or refund the price paid for same.

Culture of Gladioli

Location: The Gladiolus is easy to grow. It will do well in any good garden soil. A rich, sandy loam is, no doubt, the best. Gladioli is a sun-loving plant, therefore deep shade should be avoided. A location with full sun is best, except in very hot climates where partial shade during the hottest part of the day would be preferable. Don't plant your "Glads" along the foundation of a building nor under or near to large trees or shrubs that will rob them of both moisture and nourishment.

Preparation of Soil: An ideal way would be to have the ground plowed or spaded deeply in the fall with a liberal dressing of well decayed cow manure plowed or spaded in, leaving the ground in a rough condition over winter. As soon as dry enough in the spring, it should be plowed or spaded again, but no manure should be added at this time. Before planting, the ground should be well pulverized, the finer the better, and all trash and rubbish removed.

Planting can be started as soon as the soil is in good workable condition in the spring when it begins to warm up, and all danger of hard freezing is past. For the convenience in cultivating it is best to plant in rows 20 inches or more apart—24 to 30 inches is better, as it is easier getting around at blooming time without breaking off the buds. Large bulbs should be planted in trenches from 4 to 6 inches deep and small bulbs in proportion to size. A $\frac{1}{4}$ -inch bulb should not be planted deeper than 2 to 3 inches. In light, sandy soil deeper planting is recommended and shallower in heavy loam or clay soil.

Cultivation can be started soon after planting is finished by raking the surface over the rows. Weed seeds germinate very readily at this time and can be killed much easier and quicker before they get a good start and before they have time to even get through the ground than after they have developed into sturdy plants. A good time to kill them is on a sunny day when the ground is dry enough to work well. Care should be taken so as not to break off the young shoots as they begin to appear in the rows. As soon as the plants are well established, a good fertilizer may be used to advantage. If the land has not been enriched the previous year, pulverized sheep manure scattered thinly and evenly along the rows and well raked or cultivated in, or if old barnyard manure can be had, it can be used in this way with good results. Steamed bone meal can also be used between the rows in much the same manner. If the season is dry, a good watering is needful after each application of fertilizer. If soil is very poor, repeat this operation every week or 10 days. In the meantime cultivate often, the more the better. As soon as the top soil is dry enough to work well after each rain or watering, rake or cultivate. Even if there are no weeds the soil needs to be stirred and kept open for other reasons as well to obtain best results. Deep cultivation may be practiced when the plants are small. As they grow it should be gradually made shallower. When flower spikes begin to shoot up, cultivate only 1 to 2 inches deep. From this time on only the surface of the ground should be stirred, so as not to injure the tender feeding roots.

Watering: Where a good supply of water can be had and the natural rainfall is not sufficient to keep the ground moist, don't let your "Glads" suffer from thirst. A good soaking once a week is needed at the time the buds begin to form and from that time on during the blooming season. A light sprinkling daily is more harmful than none at all. In very heavy clay soil, watering can easily be over done, as Gladioli require plenty moisture, but simply can't stand "wet feet." At all times, as soon as the surface soil is dry enough, cultivate. If you want good bulbs to plant another season, continue to cultivate, even after blooming season is over.

Cutting: When the finest blooms are desired, the spike should be cut as soon as the first bud has opened (early morning is best time) and allowed to open inside rather than out in the hot sun. Place the stems in a deep vase with fresh, cold water, which should be changed daily. Wilted flowers should be pulled off as soon as they appear and the stems shortened in same proportion, with a slanting cut. The flowers will last longer if kept in a cool place over night, but avoid draft. If good bulbs are desired, as much foliage as possible should be left on the plant. To develop a good bulb at least 4 leaves are necessary—more is better.

Digging: As soon as the tops begin to turn brown, or as soon as killed by frost, the plant should be lifted and the tops cut off close to the bulb with a sharp knife or shears. Keep the bulbs in a dry, airy place to cure for a couple of weeks, with protection against frost. As soon as well dried, the old bulbs and roots can easily be removed and made ready for storing away for the winter.

Storing: The bulbs can then be placed in shallow boxes or crates; baskets or paper bags will do for small lots. Place in a cool, frost-proof place in the basement (a temperature of 40 to 45 degrees is best). In wintering over valuable varieties, it is well to look them over occasionally. If air is too damp, the bulbs are apt to mold. If too dry, they will shrink up too much. Keep your bulbs in the best condition possible during their period of rest and you will be well rewarded with fine flowers the next season.

Dowagiac, Mich., Mar. 21, 1925
A. J. Anderson,
Dear Sir:

I like to give praise where praise is due. I also like to kick when I have one coming. I am writing two letters today; one to you to praise you for your prompt service and fine healthy looking bulbs which I just received—the other to a scoundrel who shipped me also an order, which was immediately sent back to him. They were undersized, unhealthy, and he did not even give full count. Sorry I could not have given you a larger order this year, but you can count on me from now on.

Thanks very much.

Yours truly,

H. B. I.

My Dear Mr. Anderson:

Your favor of the 15th just received. The 40 bulbs of "Shell Pink" came O. K. Please accept my thanks for sending the additional bulbs to make up the value in the difference of price. I assure you that I appreciate your conscientious methods. There are very few growers who would have dealt as you have. I also wish to thank you for the 25 bulbs of—which you sent for trial.

I shall throw all of the bulb business that I can in your direction in appreciation of your treatment and good service.

Thanking you again for your generosity, and wishing you a happy and prosperous New Year. I am,

Very truly yours,

Dear Mr. Anderson:

The bulbs were received in perfect condition and to tell you I am pleased with them, does not do it justice; they were wonderful bulbs. Every one of them beyond criticism. As for the extra count, I believe you have overdone it and are too liberal.

I am indeed fortunate to have ordered the most of my stock from you.

With best wishes,

H. W. S.

The Gladiolus Bulbs shipped on the 10th came yesterday, the 18th, in good shape. Thanks for the liberal way in which you filled my order, also for the six Jewells gratis. I am very much interested in the Primulinus type, and want to work up a good stock for cutting. Do not care so much for the large kinds. Trusting I may be able to send you future orders, I am,

Sir:

I have just unpacked your order No. . . . , and feel that I owe it to you to acknowledge the truly remarkable bulbs you sent me, also to thank you for the very good value in "extras" for so small an order.

In looking over my list I find I have purchased bulbs from seven different concerns. One hundred and fifty different varieties, and not a single bulb came up to several of those you sent me. If these bulbs fulfill their promise when blooming time comes you will surely hear from me again, as I hope to own every worthwhile Gladiolus that I can afford to buy. I trust you will let me have your next season's catalogue, especially if you add any new varieties to your list.

Respectfully,

E. R.

Dear Sir:

Bulbs received O. K., and believe me, they are some bulbs. Wish you would just slip me the secret of growing them so large and fat. I think those first size ———— beat anything I ever saw. Given half a chance, such bulbs will surely throw some wonderful flowers. Thank you for your generous treatment both as to count and size. I certainly appreciate it. With the compliments of the season and best wishes for your continued success.

I am, very sincerely,
